HP OpenView: Network Node Manager 7.5 Packaged Demonstration

DESCRIPTION

A Partner Services consultant will demonstrate a typical Network Node Manager environment, covering visualization of the environment, event correlation, extended topology, and, the simulation of network problems.

DELIVERABLES

- An overview of the graphical user interface
- An overview of network discovery
- An overview of how the topology can be displayed and customized within Network Node Manager maps
- A demonstration of event correlation within the alarm browser
- An overview of how different user groups can be assigned to support particular devices/nodes
- A demonstration of Network Node Managers integrated reports and/or integration with OVPI
- An Overview of the most common Smart Plug-ins – Additional information available depending on the customers environments

CUSTOMER BENEFITS

The customer will benefit from the technical experience and expertise in a guided demonstration.

The customer will have confidence they can proceed with the product evaluation with the knowledge gained from the demonstration

The customer will benefit from a full interactive session with the ability to 'have a go themselves' if desired.

The customer will save time and future discrepancies that may otherwise occur from an unguided, literature based product brief.

ENVIRONMENT

The demonstration server will be using MS Windows Server 2003.

SNMP devices will be simulated using MIMIC, a virtual network simulator, allowing the simulation of a large number of nodes.

Any other Nodes for demonstration of the remote consoles or other features will use MS Windows Server 2003.
